I have faced many traumatic events in my life that left me unmotivated due to depression. Both of my grandfathers as well as both of my uncles passed away while I was attending school. It seemed as if whenever I was beginning to heal from the loss of one of my role models, another one would pass away. I began to lose focus on school. No matter how hard I tried, sometimes I just couldn't fight through the pain. Over time I began to remember the strength and perseverance they instilled in me. I remembered how they used to encourage me to always do my best and how they would even help me with my homework. I remembered how good it felt when they told me how proud they were of me for being on honor roll and playing football. Sometimes with pain we forget that we reflect on our ancestors, and we are the ones in control of our future. Therefore, it was up to me to fight through it and turn my grades around. I was determined to redirect my path towards one of success. I began to study more instead of playing video games. I began to strive to finish my homework early instead of procrastinating. I began to participate in student activities like football and track which became therapeutic for me. Instead of being prideful, I began to reach out to my teachers for help with my assignments. With the redirection of my focus, I have maintained an honor roll status. Every day is a struggle, but I am determined to be a first generational college graduate. I will build a new legacy for myself whilst also bringing honor to my family.

To Whom It May Concern:

Ahmed Joseph in my English 12 ERWC course. He is also a football player, in Bridge Builders and is in EAOP. He is a talented athlete who also takes care of his grades in a football program that doesn't always push its players academically as much as they should. He also takes AP Government and AP Psychology in order to challenge himself. He is an involved student who is a natural leader and helps others. He does his work, has good attendance, and is a positive influence on those around him.

He also does Track and Field and does multiple events including shotput, discus, 100 and 200 meter events. He works well with other students on the field and in the classroom. He has a few prospects to play football in college as well. He takes the initiative to get things done at our Title I school and I'm proud of him for challenging himself and surrounding himself with positive role models and not letting others' immature behavior impact him. He is respectful and has been an integral part of our school for all of his four years. He is determined and I know he will do well in the field of Kinesiology where he will continue to help others.

Sincerely,

Samantha Lipisko
English teacher

“Antioch High School . . . a tradition of excellence”

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to write this letter of recommendation for Ahmed Joseph, a former student of mine who has consistently demonstrated remarkable dedication, both in academics and in his extracurricular pursuits as a student-athlete. While Ahmed is no longer enrolled in my class, I feel privileged to have worked with him and to see his growth and commitment in action.

Ahmed possesses a strong work ethic, which is evident both in and outside the classroom. His ability to balance the demands of athletics and academics speaks volumes about his time-management skills and determination. He approaches his studies with the same discipline and commitment that he applies to his athletic endeavors, striving for excellence in everything he does. His efforts are not only limited to his personal growth but extend to his classmates as well. Ahmed is always willing to lend a helping hand, patiently explaining difficult concepts to others and ensuring that they fully understand the material. His kindness and willingness to support his peers create a positive and collaborative learning environment.

In addition to his teamwork and academic success, Ahmed is proactive about his own learning. He regularly advocates for himself, seeking out tutoring and extra support, even on weekends, to ensure that he fully grasps the content. This self-awareness and initiative are traits that will serve him well in any future endeavor.

Even after his time in my class, Ahmed continues to show a level of thoughtfulness that is rare. He makes a point to greet me daily, and I appreciate the respect and kindness he shows me and others. It's clear that Ahmed is a young man with a strong sense of responsibility, a caring attitude, and a commitment to personal and academic growth.

It is without hesitation that I recommend Ahmed for any opportunity he chooses to pursue. His strong character, dedication, and willingness to support others make him a standout individual. I am confident that he will continue to excel in whatever path he takes.

If you require any further information or would like to discuss Ahmed's qualifications further, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Chelsea Marquez
